WHEAT GROWERS IN OHIO INCREASE THE YIELD THROUGH SEED

Wheat growers of Ohio are increasing their yield per acre by improving the quality of seed they sow, according to W. E. Hanger, secretary of the Ohio Seed Improvement Association.

The association is entirely an organization of farmers and others interested in the use of farm seeds of high quality. It provides for the inspection and certification of high-yielding varieties in the state to be used as seed. Only those fields sown with seed of standard varieties and from known sources are eligible for inspection. The farmer pays for this inspection, which is done under the supervision of the Department of Farm Crops of the Ohio State University.

The farmer whose field successfully passes inspection is permitted to sell his grain under the guarantee of the association and each bag must bear a tag carrying this guarantee.

The association, this year, in addition to the certified fields, passed certain fields as "registered." Not more than two heads in every thousand heads examined could be of a variety other than the one grown. It was noted that the fields passed were entirely free from cockle, cheat, rye, or smut. Only fields sown with registered wheat this fall are eligible for certification next year.

Threshing since last year showed that the standard varieties of wheat yielded 3.1 bushels more an acre than common varieties.

MILTON SILLS HAS FINE ROLE IN "SEA HAWK" COMING HERE

Frank Lloyd's premier First National Picture version of Rafael Sabatini's colorful story of the sixteenth century piracy and romance, "The Sea Hawk," which comes to the Bijou Theater Monday evening for a three night stay is billed as the biggest feature of the year. There will be two shows each night, the first beginning at 6:30 o'clock and the second at 8:45 p.m.

Theater goers are accustomed to seeing casts of all nationalities in their screen fare, for they see American, English, French and Japanese actors playing side by side, but for true cosmopolitanism, nothing can equal the production of "The Sea Hawk." It is said.

Milton Sills is seen as the principal male character and in the large supporting cast are found Enid Bennett, Marc MacDermott, Wallace Beery, Lloyd Hughes, Frank Currier, Wallace MacDonald, William Collier, Jr., Mme. Medea Radzina, Kathleen Key, and a host of other well known actors and actresses.

Several night battles between two large ancient ships and a number of daylight encounters between Spanish and Moorish buccaneering craft are among the big scenes of "The Sea Hawk." An entire Algerian village, with slave markets, four giant ships, an English castle, and large interior settings have all been necessary to give "The Sea Hawk" the proper background.

DELEGATES ATTEND 40 AND 8 MEETING

Four delegates from the Xenia Voluntary of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, the inner organization of the American Legion, attended the one-day convention of the southwest district of the society in Cincinnati Saturday.

The conference, an affair with an initiatory ceremony as a feature, was held in the Veteran's Memorial Club house in Cincinnati with all the state officers in attendance.

Those who attended the convention from the Xenia Voltaire were Paul Evers, William Rickles, Raymond Horen and Harry Derrick.

A delegation of several hundred members from Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky witnessed the exemplification of the degree work in the evening staged by the Cincinnati Voltaire, No. 29. Twenty-five candidates were initiated.

The caucus began at noon Saturday followed by dinner at 6 o'clock that evening.

An increased sale was reported of denatured alcohol, car owners believing that the radiators of their machines would freeze over night.

Nearby cities experienced their first light snowfall of the year, but no snow fell in Xenia although the chilly weather led some people to believe that Xenia was also in for its first snowfall of the season.

Weather forecasters predicted that Monday would be fair, while slightly warmer weather was promised for Tuesday.

BATIK ART OF MISS KENNEDY DRAWING ATTENTION HERE

A number of Xenians had their first introduction to the work of a local artist this week, when Miss Helen Kennedy, batik artist, exhibited her work at the Jobe Brothers Store opening.

The beauty of Miss Kennedy's work was a revelation to Xenia people who were unaware of her skill in the difficult batik work and dyeing.

The larger part of Miss Kennedy's work is being exhibited this week in Dayton at the Dayton Art Institute, where the work of artists from over the country will be on display at the institution for one month.

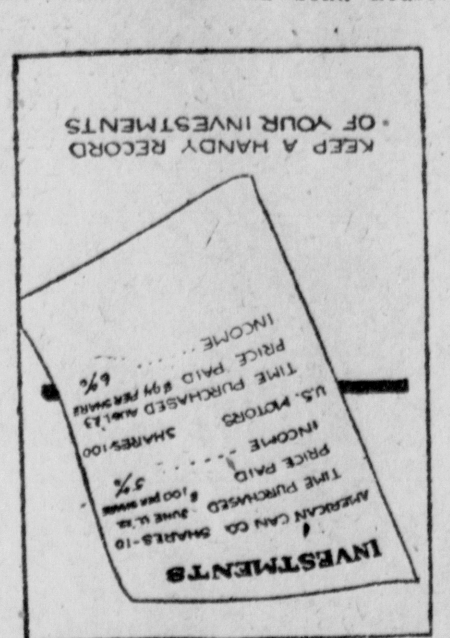

Miss Kennedy began her studies with Mr. Oliver at The Dayton Art Institute, three years ago. She next took instructions from R. Kinsman Waters, well known Columbus artist and her last instructor was William R. Hentschel, of the Cincinnati Art Institute, recognized as one of the foremost design teachers in the country.

Miss Kennedy also exhibited last month with the Dayton artists at the Dayton Art Institute. Her work includes wall panels of exquisite beauty, pillows, scarfs, table throws and other pieces.

Her designing is entirely original, as are the combining of colors and material. The work is done on fine silks which adds to the beauty of the finished pieces.

RAINFALL PROVES WELCOME RELIEF TO CITIZENS HERE

Thursday's unexpected rainfall proved a boon to Xenians, according to City Manager S. O. Hale, as due to the long drought, many cisterns in the city had gone completely dry. Although Thursday's rain did not fill the cisterns entirely up, it helped considerably, it is said.

Likewise the rain was also a god- send to the street cleaning depart- ment, as the leaves have been falling in greater numbers since the rain, and the trees are now prac- tically bare of leaves.

According to Manager Hale, the falling leaves had choked up many catch basins and strewn streets and gutters until it was practically impossible to pack them in the wagons because they were so dry.

Street gangs are now working up on the streets and expected to have the catch basins, gutters, and streets, entirely free from leaves by the end of the week, it was said.

AUTOS DAMAGED IN COLLISION MONDAY

Two Ford automobiles collided at Detroit and Main Streets about 7 o'clock Monday morning, consid- erably damaging both machines. The occupants of the cars were shaken up but no one was seriously injured.

The Ford touring car, occupied by Maud Phillips, Margaret Purtee and Gerald Bowen, colored, and driven by Cleo Phillips, also colored, all of Jamestown, was traveling west on Main Street, when it smashed into another Ford owned and driven by William H. Finlay, of this city.

Finlay's machine was damaged to the extent of a broken rear wheel and a badly bent fender, while both front wheels on the other car were smashed.

The damaged machines were taken to Gordon Bros. garage.

Edwin Pfeister, Dayton, was fined $100 and costs by Judge E. Dawson Smith in Police Court Monday morning after he was found guilty of driv- ing an automobile while intoxicated.

The hearing followed Pfeister's ar- rest Saturday night after his Ford au- tomobile had collided with an Olds- mobile owned and driven by David Sholey, Dayton, near Trebels, wreck- ing both cars. Raymond G. Stuts- man, near Bellbrook, who witnessed the collision, ordered Pfeister into his car and brought him to this city, where he turned him over to police.

Pfeister was released from custody after he furnished $50 bond Saturday night for his appearance in Police Court Monday morning. Judge Smith later remitted the fine on Pfeister's agreement to pay for the damages to Sholey's automobile, which amounted to $100. Sholey and three other oc- cupants of his auto escaped uninjured, although the front of the machine was damaged.

Pfeister was thrown clear of his ma- chine, which was almost completely demolished, and also escaped unhurt. Pfeister was driving toward Xenia and Sholey was driving toward Day- ton at the time of the collision.

The Armistice Day exercises of Xenia Aerle, Fraternal Order of Eagles Sunday morning at their new hall, Main and Whiteman Streets, were featured by an address by Judge Dean C. Throckmorton, Judge of the Municipal Court at Columbus, who gave a short talk on the achievements of the Eagles Lodge during the late World War.

Sunday afternoon was "open house" day at the Eagles Hall, and approx- imately 150 people heard the talk by Judge Throckmorton at 4 o'clock, and enjoyed the refreshments following the talk, at 8 o'clock.

Judge Throckmorton, in speaking of the service the Eagles Lodge had rendered during the late war, declared the lodge had more than given its full quota of men to the great fight.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmoth- er's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and at- tractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked ap- pearance, this simple mixture was ap- plied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and apt of date. Nowadays, by ask- ing at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Com- pound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addi- tion of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well known druggists say it dark- ens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been ap- plied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beau- tifully dark and glossy.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

"A CUBBY HOLE" ANTIQUE SHOP

In a hole in the wall, barely larger than a big cupboard, at 106 West Street, New York, is a shop of antiques whose contents hold the attention and curiosity of commuters and other patrons of the Cortland Street ferry on their way to and from New Jersey.

Clocks of curious make and watches of ancient vintage and all kinds of mechanical contrivances seem to occupy the attention of Fred W. Jensen, who is supposed to be a watchmaker but insists that he isn't and yet defies the world to bring him any kind of a timepiece that he can't make run; and after he has it running he will defy the world to show how he did it.

In his little window he has a wrist watch mounted on stilts made of matches stuck into a tiny paper box and operated by a cardboard pendulum suspended by a piece of hair spring. The machinery is set in motion by moving the covers of the box on which it rests after winding the watch. And if any one can show how it is done Mr. Jensen says that he can have the watch.

A card attached to the stilts reads:

"When your old watch goes on the blink you can rig it up like this. Directions: Discard balance wheel, hair spring and whatever else you find in the way."

It's a funny shop and the antiques are not for sale. Jensen says that he is a collector of them just like Mr. Morgan or any other fellow. He has a gold spindle watch the size of a dime with a split hand in the back. He declares that it is a French masterpiece and that there is only one other like it, the mate being in the Morgan collection.

Another is a massive Geneva gold watch with thirty-four ruby jewels in it. It is a repeater.

It has a calendar with a hand indicating the day of the week and the month. He says that it is seventy-five years old and is a chronometer.

Jensen has another watch shaped like a marble and about the same size which he will tell you was made in Vienna 200 years ago and which contains the finest mechanism he ever saw.

It is of filigreed 18-carat gold and is wound and regulated by moving the case, which is in two parts.

"That's something that Mr. Morgan hasn't got in his collection," he said. "There's nothing like it in the world. What it is worth I don't know. It isn't for sale."

Jensen is now rigging up for his own pleasure a clock which when completed will be in the shape of a farm house in Holland, with a windmill and a pond with miniature ducks. His clock has no hands and is worked with weights.

It indicates breakfast time and a gong strikes when it is time for the mid-day meal. He says that it is the kind of a clock in use in Holland a century ago, when a sun dial gave the time. When the sun didn't come out the farmers were in hard luck.

He has another big watch which, he says, was made in 1600. On one side of the face is a golden goddess with a sheaf of wheat on her right arm and a tiny hammer in her upraised left hand, which strikes the quarter hours on another little gong above. He says that the watch is a freak but keeps fairly good time.

"One of the first watches made for ladies," said the watchmaker, "was made in London in 1700. It was a key-winder and very bulky. It wouldn't do for the girls of today who wear wrist watches."

"My father was a watchmaker in Copenhagen, Denmark, where I was born. There were three boys of us and we all wanted to be watchmakers, but our father told us that none of us would ever be one. Maybe he was right, but I never saw the watch that I couldn't fix."

Jensen has been on the riverfront for thirty years. When he landed here from Denmark he had seven dollars in his pocket. He couldn't have landed with that little in these days. But he said he went right into business on the present site of the Whitehall Building in Battery Place, renting a store for eight dollars a month, or two dollars a week. He took it by the week.

There were about fifty stores in that block," he said, "and the pushcart peddlers used to stow their carts in there at night; I don't know how much rent they had to pay, but I had a hard time getting that two dollars every week and there were lots of weeks when I didn't get it and I paid a dollar down and owed the rest."

"There were about fifty saloons in the neighborhood and they all seemed to be doing business. One saloon keeper boasted to me that he had forty men working for him. 'What?' I said, 'You got forty bartenders?' I'd like to know where that saloon is. I never saw that many bartenders. He laughed at me. 'I didn't say bartenders,' he said. 'I said men. They're beggars, most of them. They go out and get the money and spend it for whiskey with me.'"

"I guess his men who didn't beg stole their money. Believe me, it was a tough neighborhood, and they'd take a man's shirt if he didn't have anything else."

"One time a fellow came into my place to show off a new suit of clothes he just bought. Half an hour later he came back without his shoes and coat. They stole his shoes off his feet and coat off his back while he was sitting down."

"Well, the saloons are gone. I don't know whether prohibition is a good thing, but in those days nobody had a watch. Now there are a whole lot of that class wearing watches. The saloon doesn't get all the money any more."

Another freak that Jensen has made for himself is a clock that is operated by a series of steel balls running down inclined planes. As each ball drops into a trap a second is ticked off and the ball is raised to the top of the first plane by a little elevator.

"My father was born in 1832," said Mr. Jensen, "and when he was in business if a man wanted a watch he would have to order it made and then wait for two or three years before he got it."

"Here is a silver watch which is ninety years old. It's called a blind man's watch, for a blind person can tell the time by feeling the figures which are raised. Today they are turning out watches faster than they can sell them. You don't have to wait a minute if you have the price and the American watch is the best watch made for appearances and accuracy. The American watch industry is the highest in the world."

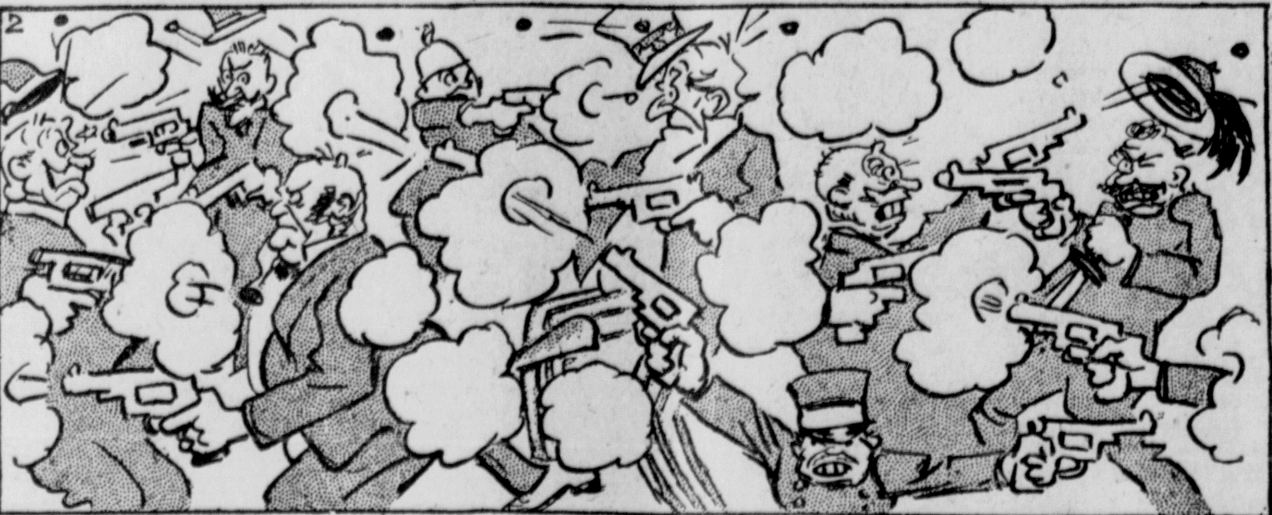

Mr. Jensen may not be doing all the business he wants, but he is the advance agent for big business. He had to move out of the Washington Street side of Battery Place block to make way for the Whitehall Building and was chased out of his next store to make way for the Coal and Iron National Bank at West and Liberty Streets.

It is a matter of much regret that the old liberty bell, which is due to arrive in Xenia on Friday afternoon cannot be brought up into the city.

The C. H. and D. railroad is now thinking of putting on several more passenger trains on this division of the road.

On Wednesday two wrecks occurred on this division of the C. H. and D. near Wellston, which resulted in the loss of three lives and the serious injury of another.

Dr. W. A. Galloway has gone to St. Louis, where he will spend the week visiting at the World's Fair.

Fruit Batter Pudding: Beat four eggs light and add to them one pint of sweet milk. Turn part of this mixture into one pint of flour and beat well. Add the remainder of the egg-milk mixture and a pinch of salt. Stir in one tablespoon of butter melted and turn all into a buttered pudding dish. Sprinkle one pint of fresh quartered fruit into the uncooked pudding (apple preferred) and bake about 35 minutes in a hot oven. Serve with a liquid lemon sauce.

Lester Club Special: Spread

slices of toast generously with cream cheese or pimento cheese and lay two slices of bacon on each piece. Broil till the bacon is crisp, sprinkle paprika on top, and serve at once. (This dish is kindly contributed by the chef of a well-known inn.)

Croquettes Made With Cooked Beef: (Left-Overs of Potatoes or Roast Beef may be used). One cup of cold, chopped, cooked beef, two tablespoons of bread crumbs, one tablespoon of butter melted, one teaspoon of finely minced raw onion, one-half teaspoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, one beaten egg, yolk and a drop of Worcester Sauce. Season the meat with the salt, pepper, chopped onion and Worcester Sauce. Add the crumbs, butter and egg yolk and mix well. Then shape in small croquettes, roll these in flour, extra raw egg, and extra bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat. Drain a moment on crumpled brown paper before serving with tomato catsup.

Date Rolls: "Mix together one cup of chopped and stoned dates, one teaspoon of baking soda and three-quarters of a cup of hot water; let the mixture cool, then add to it one-half cup of granulated sugar, two cups of flour, the beaten yolk of one egg and one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Fold in the stiffly beaten white of one egg and divide the mixture equally between two one-pound coffee cans, well greased inside. Bake these in a slow oven for three-quarters of an hour and serve either hot or cold." (Contributed.)

Celery-Cabbage Salad: Cut the center from a small firm head of cabbage so as to leave a mere shell of outer leaves, which can be filled. Now shred the cabbage which you took from this shell, with a sharp knife, measure it and add to it an equal amount of crisp diced celery. Wet the mixture with bottled Mayonnaise dressing and stuff the cabbage with it. Serve very cold.

Today's Talks

FOR ALL TIME

So often our own individual importance seems to sink so very low and the importance of what we do rises so very high.

But this is right. None of us is very much in himself. It is what we do that is all important—far down the ages. That which we do may be small and incomplete, but if we have worked by putting our heart into our work that work will live.

How the work of a man looms high above the man himself! He may be ever so imperfect, ever so frail, yet what he thinks from his soul may communicate with the stars—even reach the golden fringe of heaven itself.

It isn't until we come to look upon our work as something for all time that we begin to fulfill the law of life.

The man crumbles but his work and the lofty desires of his God intentions reach and reach; long ages after the man has been forgotten that which he thought and did lives on to inspire and lead.

No matter how direct and cruel the beatings of evil desire are against a heart that is sincere and right, that heart citadel expressive of the man cannot be felled.

For good is for all time.
None of us know very much about fulfillment. The mason does his job and goes his way. The steel constructor completes the frame and then goes his way. The brick-layers carpenters come and go. And while the building is complete those who also come and go.

We hunger for those things we may never have. But that we give from our most sterling goes on. And God walks along it.

MINISTER URGES SUPPORT OF PUBLIC ENTERPRISES HERE

A special sermon at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning the pastor, the Rev. James P. Abt, spoke on the subject, "A Better Key," he declared, "is the key."

The Christian Church is interested in the evangelization of the whole world. The local congregation is in the world work but its special interest is the community in which it lives. Therefore the First Presbyterian Church is interested in the opening of a "better key" to the community.

The new parsonage, the first of First United Presbyterian Church, while greatly needed by the church itself, is also a notable contribution to the immediate community. We are justly proud of the many splendid buildings in Xenia. Formerly, by the titled or wealthy and the common people were kept out. Christian good buildings were erected and used by the titled or wealthy and the common people.

Against the rights of the people and against any "divine right" of the freedom of all in declaring that we cannot be half slave and half free; in declaring also that we cannot be half sober and half drunk. So today the finest buildings are open to and used by the public whether it be in Washington or Xenia. And Xenia has many public buildings and institutions to which she may point with pride.

"However, there are two glaring defects in our community life today. First, we must have better reading in our library. The report of the examiner puts us to shame. I have noted how the library is used by all classes and colors in our city and we must come to the help of this worthy institution at once.

"Secondly, we must have recreational facilities provided. If Van Wert, O., can have Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., religious education in her schools, so can Xenia. Are we so poverty-stricken or has some curse come upon us that we cannot provide a community center for our young people. Sell the former building, if necessary, remodel the abandoned high school, place the physical director of the high school over the program of recreational activities. Anything will be better than the present deplorable condition of our city in this respect. It will cost money? Surely. Yet we have money for many private associations. Public spirited citizens of Van Wert re-invested a bit of what they received from their community and they are not sorry. We may not have many wealthy individuals but surely there are some who are willing to bring honor to their family name and a great blessing to the community by launching this movement."

After speaking in the highest terms of the schools and those in charge of them, the Rev. Mr. Lytle urged upon his people their enthusiastic support of the movement to introduce religious education in the public schools. He quoted from statistics of Prof. Athearn to show the great need for this work. In closing he called attention to the fact that as professed followers of Christ the church members must accept not only the Golden Rule but also the "New Commandment" of Jesus "that ye love one another even as I have loved you." "That calls not only for justice, fair play and genuine honesty but for unselfish giving and heroic sacrifice for the welfare of all men."

CLERK IS SERIOUSLY SHOT BY BANDIT

Dayton, O. Nov. 17.—David Edwards, 23, 575 W. Fourth Street, was shot and probably fatally wounded by an unidentified lone gunman during a holdup of the Father and Son shoe store, 114 S. Ludlow Street, Monday.

Edwards, who is a clerk in the store, was shot through the abdomen when he resisted the bandit and started a scuffle. His condition is critical at Miami Valley Hospital.

A total of $186 was taken by the bandit from the store safe. Other money and checks were left by the bandit. The robbery was one of the most daring and sensational day light robberies committed in Dayton for months. Dayton detectives are searching for the bandit.

SECOND FIRE VISITS JERSEY CITY WHEN FLAMES BURN PIERS

New York, Nov. 17.—For the second time within three days Jersey City has been visited by a conflagration on its water front.

Fire yesterday consumed two Erie railroad piers, the steamer Dayton and 14 barges. The flames started in the Erie's cooage pier, where barrels, many of them oil and grease-soaked, were in process of repair. It quickly spread to the one adjoining, and in less than two hours the piers were a mass of flames. With piers 5 and 6 leveled, the flames, which had destroyed 13 barges moored close by, threatened to leap to the Adams Express company's pier, but firemen succeeded in saving it. The total loss is estimated at $1,500,000. Two firemen were injured, but both are expected to recover.

Last Friday two blocks on the river front, including two big plants and a dozen tenements, were consumed, with a loss of $1,000,000.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 17.—Police were working today to determine the truth or falsity of a report that pyromaniacs caused the $2,000,000 blaze which menaced the entire water front in the lower section of the city yesterday.

The fire, Jersey City's second in which millions were lost, within three days, followed so closely upon the heels of the first that police and fire officials, unable to determine definitely the cause of either, declined to make a statement one way or another.

RUSH FOR HUNTING LICENSES BEFORE SEASON OPENING

The rabbit hunting season opened Saturday and hundreds of sport lovers spent the day chasing the elusive cotton tails.

Friday and Saturday were rush days at the office of Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam and by Monday it was found that 170 licenses had been issued to Greene County hunters for the rabbit season.

Hunters going forth Saturday reported ideal conditions, leaves, twigs and brush damp by Thursday's rain, the weather not too cold and plenty of scampering targets.

Hunters are warned that they may not remain on property against the consent of the owners nor trespass on property where "no hunting" signs are in evidence.

Scarcity of game is being reported by many hunters, while others were more fortunate, and succeeded in bagging many of the little animals.

LA FOLLETTE CLUB FILES ACCOUNTS OF CAMPAIGN HERE

Receipts of the LaFollette-Wheeler Club during the recent presidential campaign totalled $42.75 and disbursements amounted to $41.01, leaving a balance in the hands of the treasurer, of $1.74 according to the expense statement filed with officials of the Board of Elections Friday by B. H. Bottorff, chairman, and L. G. Whittington, secretary and treasurer of the club.

Receipts were derived from fifty-nine membership cards issued previous to the election and a distribution of campaign books which brought $6.25 into the treasury. Donations to the club from the Brotherhood of Clerks and the Miami Valley Lodge No. 653 totalled $7.

R. D. Williamson, Republican candidate for Representative to the General Assembly, spent $25 during his pre-election campaign which consisted of a donation of that amount to the Greene County Central Committee, according to his expense statement filed with the Election Board.

J. Carl Marshall, candidate for Prosecuting Attorney remedied an error in his expense statement and according to his correction of his campaign expenditure, disbursed $25 during the campaign.

It has been announced by C. A. Waltz, Superintendent of schools, that there are about fifty seats left in the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium of Central High School, for the second number of the Lyceum Course, the De Marco Ensemble, that will appear there Tuesday evening. These seats will sell for $1.00.

DAWES RECOVERING FROM OPERATION AT EVANSTON HOSPITAL

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Charles G. Dawes, vice president elect today was reported "virtually recovered" at the Evanston Hospital, where he underwent an operation for hernia yesterday. Attending physicians today pronounced Dawes' general condition excellent for rapid recovery but declared that the nature of the operation would require that he remain in bed for approximately two weeks.

Dawes was operated upon yesterday afternoon, a local anesthetic being employed and, while being removed from the operating room he joked with attendants. A few hours later he dropped into a deep normal sleep and surgeons declared the operation entirely successful.

The immediate operation was recommended by Dawes' personal physician, who was summoned yesterday after the vice president elect had noticed a slight pain and swelling in his abdomen, after completing his morning exercise. The condition was pronounced hernia, an aggravation of a condition discovered six years ago when Dawes took his physical examination for his commission in the army.

NOTES WHOSE MERE MENTION HAS A MUSICAL SOUND

We can't all of us have a highly developed ear for music—yet that fact doesn't dull the enjoyment with which all of us pick up our ears when bank notes are mentioned.

Probably we are hoping to receive a few clues regarding places where such notes may be acquired.

If that's your frame of mind right now—you are not hoping in vain.

The real reason why bank notes are mentioned here is to assert that one place where they may be picked up is the A-B-C Classified Section.

There are bargains here in all sorts of merchandise, used cars and real estate—without mentioning the possibility for profit through business offers and employment opportunities.

Keep your eye on the A-B-C Classified Section if you want to spend less and have more.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

THE COMING YOUTH
Time was I flung across the field
A ball with certain aim and true,
But now to younger arms I yield
The thrill of sport which once I knew.
And I could run with flying feet
And fling myself to reach the base
Spurred by the zest for victory sweet,
But now a younger has my place.

Time was in leather I have dressed
And called the signal: "twelve, six, nine!"
And held the ball against my breast
Endeavoring to break the line;
I, too, have shared the battle's thrill
And tasted of the stirring chase,
But now my years are soft and still
And there's a youngster in my place.

Ay, there's a youngster in my place!
The field is his, the grand stand mine,
I could not keep the rapid pace,
Nor longer hold the battle line;
Little I dreamed, in days of old,
That somewhere was a babe new born
I should make way for and behold
Wearing the uniform I'd worn.

My place! How feebly do we cling
To glory and the strength we boast!
Always there lies the shadowing
Of one who soon shall take our post;
Behind us he is pressing on
Although we never see his face,
That eager, younger, stronger one
Destined some day to take our place.

EAGLES TAKE OVER MANAGEMENT OF ALL WRESTLING MATCHES

The Eagles Lodge has taken over the management of all future wrestling matches staged at Eagle Hall, according to an announcement just made, and future bouts will be staged under the auspices of that lodge, it is said.

Tom Pappas, former Xenon and well known heavyweight wrestler, has been sponsoring the matches, but because of allegations that the shows put on in the past had been "framed", the Eagles decided to stage all future bouts under their auspices so there will be no question regarding whether they are "on the level" or not.

The first wrestling show sponsored by the Eagles will be put on Thursday night, November 20, at their hall.

Two bouts of interest will feature the show. In the main go, Harry Klionis, of Norfolk, Va., will face a new adversary in Bull Gossard, of London, O., who has shown in Xenia in previous bouts. This will be a welterweight tussle, and the men will wrestle two falls out of three.

The preliminary bout will also be a welterweight match, with George Gatsoff, of Massillon, and W. O. Miller, of Virginia, opposing each other in a bout that will probably go the limit of three falls.

The bouts will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock with an admission price of fifty cents being charged.

LIFE BLOOD PAYS FOR COLLEGE TUITION.

It has just been discovered that Adolph Eckstein, star of the Brown University, Providence, R. I., football team and captain of the wrestling team, has been working his way through college by selling his blood, in pint lots, for transfusions. Eckstein, considered an all-American center, has been urged by the coaches to find some other means of earning his way through college, because they fear he will undermine his tremendous strength.

ATHLETICS LOSE TO DAYTON TEAM

The East Side Athletics football team was bested by Linden Center team at Dayton Sunday afternoon for the second time this season, this time going down by an 18 to 0 count.

Thompson was the whole show for Center. This lad was a whirlwind both on offense and defense, and sweeping around the Xenia ends and through the line, accounted for two of Center's scores. He counted his first touchdown in the first quarter and another in the final stanza. Davis made the other score.

The teams were evenly matched until the final period when Center cut loose and scored two touchdowns in a few minutes.

Xenia had several chances to score, and succeeded in working the ball far into Dayton territory only to lose out by numerous fumbles and a lack of scoring punch.

Xenia tried its best to stem the tide but to no avail. The Borden brothers and Anderson were the big stars for Xenia, while the rest of the team played well.

Xenia lined up at the start with Washington and Smith at ends, A. Borden and Buford at tackles, Stevens and Starks at guards and Porter at center.

Anderson, Haynes, Cunningham and Fred Borden, started in the backfield. Later in the game, Williamson was substituted for Starks at guard, and Harris for Cunningham at half. Cunningham later got back into the game in place of Harris, while Harris took the place of Haynes at the other half.

The score by periods:
Dayton 0 6 0 12—18

Two Hunters Shot.
Mansfield, O., Nov. 17.—Richland county reported two hunting victims. Charles E. Pifer, 16, was killed on the farm of his uncle, J. H. Pifer, north of Mansfield, when his shotgun was discharged by a twig as he began his day of hunting. He was instantly killed, the contents of a shell piercing his heart. John Wentland, 46, Mansfield, was shot in the foot by an accidental discharge of his gun while he was climbing over a fence.

MODISH MITZI—The Newest Hats Have Pointed Crowns
By Jay V. Jay

Of course it's a bit of a shock! Mitzi has been wearing round crowns and square crowns, but a pointed crown is something new and she doesn't quite know whether she likes it or not. The hat is of felt trimmed with a bow of wide ribbon.

The second one Mitzi tries looks better—or is it that she's growing used to the effect? This hat has a helmet ridge from brim to peak and turns its brim up front and back. It is of felt trimmed with a single silk pom-pom.

Now Mitzi's beginning to like the idea and to admit that the pointed crown has good reason for being the smartest thing in millinery. This special model is of black felt trimmed with two black aigrettes pointed forward.

Completely reconciled to the new style, Mitzi gazes at herself in the hand mirror and thinks she never had a hat she thought was smarter than this one which remotely resembles a football helmet made of felt and trimmed with a ribbon.

PIQUA FAILS TO APPEAR FOR GAME

The Piqua Merchants football team failed to arrive in Xenia for the game with the Imperials Sunday owing to trouble with one of the trucks they were making the trip in.

Nine of the Merchant players arrived here early but the remaining players who were in the disabled truck, failed to appear by 3 o'clock so the game and refunded the fan's money. Nobody who had tickets for game and did not get a refund may use the tickets next week.

Only a fair sized crowd braved the weather to witness the battle between the Piquads and Imperials and they were no doubt disappointed as a great game was in store for them.

Next Sunday at Washington Park the Imperials will probably play West Alexandria. The West Alex crew has been traveling at a rapid clip all season and if Manager Wones is successful in landing them, a hot battle is bound to occur.

Receiver For Tire Company.
Dayton, O., Nov. 17.—Common Pleas Judge Robert C. Patterson appointed George Zimmerman to be receiver for the Master Tire and Rubber company and fixed his bond at $10,000, following the filing of a petition by Carl L. Cappell, surety for a large amount of money owed by the company, on notes payable and trade acceptances.

Va., bridge last Thursday, Orval Chandler, Harry Byers and Floyd Thomas, each about 18, confessed, the mayor said. They also are alleged to have admitted the robbery of a hardware store in Chester. They were held under bonds of $1,500 each.

SCRIBES ARE BUSY PICKING STAR GRID MEN FOR BIG BATTLE

The big question bothering Cleveland grid men and which is being given considerable attention by Cleveland sport scribes, is who will participate in the intersection grid-game at Dunn Field, Cleveland, December 6, between college stars of the East and like luminaries of the West.

Leading sport writers in the country, including the peers of them all, Walter Camp, Grantland Rice, and Walter Eckersall, who have studied the progress of the leading college and university elevens up to date this season, have submitted lists of eligible players from which the committee of sport writers are to name two squads.

All preliminary arrangements for the post-season tilt have been made, although few definite names have been decided upon. Acceptances to play have been received from several players of recent years, many of them of "All American" standing. Only those who have maintained an amateur standing during the season will be permitted to play. For the most part the teams will be made up of present college stars who have completed their last varsity athletic participation.

Favorable responses have also been received with regard to a post-season game from the coaches of the teams from which the players are to be chosen, and it is planned to have about twenty-five men on each squad.

The players will be requested to report at Cleveland two days before the contest to develop a set of signals and engage in light scrimmage practice. Inasmuch as all players chosen will be in the pink of condition, longer preparatory drill work is considered unnecessary.

The benefits of the game will be put into a fund for Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

TUBERCULOSIS IN GREENE COUNTY IS SHOWING DECREASE

A total of twenty-two out of the 420 deaths in Greene County in the year 1923 were the result of tuberculosis according to the annual report on tuberculosis compiled by the state Division of Vital Statistics and issued Saturday. Greene County's tuberculosis death rate, for 1923 was said to be 69.3 on the basis of population.

Of this number of tuberculosis deaths in 1923, Xenia had exactly half of the number, eleven, for a rate of 108.8.

Total number of deaths from 1909 to 1923, inclusive, in Greene County, were 6,434 for a yearly average of 428, and of this number 606 were caused by tuberculosis in the fourteen years, for a yearly average of forty. Thus it may be seen that the death rate in the county with tuberculosis as the direct cause, was cut almost in half.

Of the total deaths between the years 1909 and 1923, 2,393 occurred in Xenia, more than one-third of the total number of Greene County deaths, an average of year of 159. Of this number of deaths, it was found that 237 caused by tuberculosis, or more than half in the county due to that disease, occurred in Xenia, a yearly average of fifteen.

Out of the total number of deaths in the state in 1923, 75,065 it was estimated that 5,250 were due to tuberculosis, a rate of 85.8. A total of 3,337 tuberculosis deaths occurred in urban districts while 1,913 occurred in rural districts.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Truant Soul

By Victor Rousseau

"Joan, dearest," said Lancaster, after a pause, "I have often thought that some day I would tell you all the wretched story of the past. But I have been thinking differently today. I was entrapped by an unscrupulous man, who robbed me of everything that made life worth living. But there is nothing that would make me afraid to look my fellow men in the face. It is myself whom I have shamed and humiliated. Joan, I want to say nothing, not because I would keep anything from you, but because I want to start my life anew. I shall never go back to the institute."

"You mean, dear—?"

"Never. I shall not return tomorrow. I want you to come to the Southwest with me, Joan, my dear. We will drive across the hills to Carroll's and catch the through train there. I shall begin to live the new life you have given me. Will you leave everything for my sake, Joan? Is it too hard a request?"

"It is not too hard," she answered. "But it is not right for you."

"It is right for me to leave a living death behind me."

"No, dear. It is running away. You spoke to me of some harder fight to be fought."

"With nothing to win, Joan—nothing. When I leave here no man being will miss or regret me."

"There is your work at Avonmouth. There is the hospital which you have made famous throughout the United States. Your work is there, not in some obscure place where it would be of less use to the world and no example. Besides, consider that if you become famous again, as you must, you will be discovered. And one can never leave his past behind him. That follows everywhere."

"Yes, that is true," muttered Lancaster, staring out over the darkening hills. "Well, I leave it to you, my dear, but to go back to fight out a futile battle seems to me now something unendurable."

"You must go back to the institute, and then to Avonmouth, and meet your enemies, John," she said. "I shall be at your side. Nothing will make me afraid, or weaken my love for you."

His face twitched. "Not if I tell you things which prove me worthless of your love?" he asked. "Not if you find I am an outcast man who has deserved his misfortunes?"

She only smiled at him. "I shall not judge you by your words," she said, "nor yet by other men's opinions, but my knowledge of you."

"Then I shall tell you everything," he answered, drawing Joan's hand into his. "Everything, but not here. Here I shall keep the peace of the hills within my heart, and you."

So they strolled back toward the cabin, and Joan's drab-colored life was transmuted in this, her first love, to gold. She lived in her lover, she trusted wholly in him who had brought love to her, not like a conquering god, but in the simplest guise, making it the unfolding of her own loving nature. She gave her youth, her innocence as love's price, and thought the exchange her profit. There was never such peacefulness in any place as there that evening, and in Joan's heart was abounding peace likewise.

When they reached the cabin the patient was better. Lancaster spent the evening giving detailed instructions to the man's wife.

"I shall do my best to come again if I am needed," he said. "But I can't promise. I may be called to Avonmouth at any moment. Keep him quiet, for heaven's sake keep him absolutely motionless for a week, and then let him sit up if he wants to. And nothing to eat but the schedule I am making out for you."

Afterward Joan told Lancaster that she wished to stay for a few days to take care of the man. But Lancaster would not hear of it.

"These hill people never die," he said. "He'll be up and about before the week is over."

"But the diet?"

"They'll feed him on soda biscuits as soon as he's well enough to eat anything. Fortunately he won't be able to eat for a week, so he won't come to any harm. I shall send Jenkins over two or three times to report progress."

Joan's room was a tiny place under the eaves. She spent a sleepless, happy night there, thinking over the happiness that had come to her. It was strange and wonderful to lie awake under the same roof that sheltered Lancaster, and to reflect how soon their lives would flow together, calmly, in their own country. She could not have wished any happier fate in life.

With her limited experience, it seemed ideal that, after the years of stress in Avonmouth, she should be returning, almost to her own home, a wife. She had puzzled sometimes over Lancaster's long residences in the place that bore his name. But she dreamed of the time when he would give up his work at Avonmouth and retire to a new institute, a spacious home where they could fill their wards with the country people, where her life's vocation and her life's happiness would be united.

At last she fell asleep, and, when she awoke, Lancaster was tapping at her door.

"Time to get up, Joan," he called cheerfully.

She sprang out of bed. "How is the patient?" she asked.

"Doing finely and wants to go to work," said Lancaster, laughing.

Joan dressed in a hurry and ran downstairs. Lancaster was waiting on the porch. She raised her face for his kiss, already natural to her, already the happy fulfillment of her innocent dreams of love. Then, arm in arm, they strolled out into the sunlight.

The glorious light lay on every hill. In that light all the shadows of the past seemed to shrivel away.

"We are going back to the institute this morning, Joan," said Lancaster. She nodded happily. "I am ashamed to feel so gay when you are unhappy," she said.

"I am not unhappy, Joan," he answered. "I thought over everything last night, and I see now that you were right. I shall go back. Of course I shall go back. I shall regain what I have lost, and I shall face my enemies and beat them."
